

Innovation and development of cable telecommunication networks can be considered from different perspectives: the technology that is chosen for modernization and to provide new services, strategic mergers and alliances, diversification to reach new market sectors, marketing methods, option and package designs, and content transformation.

To position this industry among the most dynamic ones, has required to comply well defined objectives; and to achieve success it is imperative to integrate goals. The participation of all those involved is critical.

Expo Convention Canitec 2008 offers the alternative for you to participate actively in the design and impulse of the cable telecommunication industry. Canitec has available the best platform to know the advances and options that will define the future of this sector.

Welcome. 🌐